Pearson Education Inc., publishing as Pearson AGS Globe

Pacemaker Health, Globe Fearon, 2005/Third

Committee Comments or Notations:

Approach: * Pacemaker Health is a research-based program that focuses on core content skills presented at a lowered reading level. The text provides well-organized, clear, coherent, and compelling information in a predictable structure. Consistent concept presentation and comprehension strategies support reading, as do a strong vocabulary strand and ample visuals. Clearly stated objectives and goals aid both teachers and students. Frequent review and practice opportunities ensure student learning.

"* Additionally, the text is based on a three-phase teaching plan that uses strategies for prereading, reading, and reviewing. - Prereading strategies help students preview, connect, and build background, guide goal setting, preteach important vocabulary, establish a purpose, and spark student interest. - Reading strategies help students develop comprehension and critical thinking and introduce questioning strategies, support vocabulary building, help students interpret visual features, develop their application of healthy living skills, and add to background knowledge. - Review strategies are based on evaluation and assessment techniques and prepare students for testing."

Recommended for: Pacemaker Health is designed for Grade 6-8 students who are reading or functioning at or below grade level, English-language learners, and students with special needs.

Suggested Instructional Time: 1 semester to 1 year

Glencoe/McGraw-Hill

Glencoe Teen Health Course 3, Bronson, et al, 2007/4th

Committee Comments or Notations:

Approach: Glencoe's Teen Health Course 3 is the third in a three-book series aligned with Florida's Sunshine Standards for Health, grades 6-8. Course 3 provides the same foundation of health concepts and skills that is presented in Courses 1 and 2, but includes additional content in the areas of mental and emotional health, developing healthy relationships, conflict resolution, violence prevention, growth and development, and safety.

Similar to Courses 1 and 2, the Course 3 Student Edition provides comprehensive, age-appropriate health content in an easy-to-read format. Colorful visuals, charts, diagrams, and photos of teens participating in healthful activities engage student interest and facilitate learning. A variety of hands-on activities are included to help students practice standards-based health skills. The text also includes research-based activities that teach students how to access and evaluate current health information using the Internet and other resources. Reading and writing strategies are located throughout each lesson to reinforce reading comprehension and writing skills. Glencoe's exclusive Foldables[®] graphic organizers are provided for each chapter and help students organize main ideas and key points.

The Course 3 Teacher Wraparound Edition provides a variety of teaching strategies coded to the student text using Glencoe's easy-to-follow lesson cycle[®] Focus, Teach, Assess, and Close. Differentiated instruction strategies and activities assist teachers in adapting the health curriculum to students of all learning levels. Reading and writing strategies are provided for each lesson to reinforce reading, writing, and study skills before, during, and after each lesson presentation. Activities connecting health to core curriculum areas are featured in every chapter. Also included is a variety of supplemental information to assist teachers in dealing with sensitive issues, promoting health literacy, and incorporating technology into the health classroom.
