Contributing factors making the school a model for Career and Technical Education:

- Quality career academies that integrate academics and have been certified through the National Career Academy Coalition (NCAC). Academies include: Army JROTC Academy; Construction Academy; Criminal Justice Academy; Early Childhood Teacher Education Academy; and Sports Management & Recreation Academy.
- All academies established as Small Learning Communities:
 - Group of students within the larger high school take classes together for at least two years; classes taught by a team of teachers from different disciplines; college prep curriculum with a career theme, partnered with employers, the community, and local colleges.
- Strong Career and Technical Student Organizations which enable students to:
 - Participate in leadership and competition opportunities available through co-curricular student organizations, which provide career training, employment skills, citizenship, communication skills, and opportunities to earn scholarships.
