

HOW TO GET A BACHELOR'S OR HIGHER DEGREE AT A COMMUNITY COLLEGE CAMPUS

Location shouldn't be a barrier for place-bound students wanting to pursue a bachelor's or higher degree. Florida students can take upper-level and graduate courses through more than 510 programs located on community college campuses. These programs enable students to remain on a community college campus and receive the upper-level and graduate instruction they need to complete a bachelor's or higher degree. Broward College, Chipola College, Daytona State College, Edison College, Florida Community College at Jacksonville, Indian River State College, Miami Dade College, Northwest Florida State College, Palm Beach Community College, and St. Petersburg College have all received authority to offer their own bachelor degrees in certain areas. In most cases, however, the degrees are provided through a partnership between a community college and a public or private four-year institution. Some community colleges have even established an on-site "university center" through which students may receive academic advising, financial aid assistance, and other student services. Below is a list of community college baccalaureate programs and concurrent-use partnerships, bachelor's level or higher, that are self-reported by community colleges and universities as of April 2008, to be offered in the 2008-09 school year.

IMPORTANT: In order to provide the most accurate information to students, please be sure to check with the individual institution for program updates using the contact information listed in each community college heading.

Chart Symbols:

*Denotes baccalaureate degree offered directly by the community college, not through a partnering college/university.

+Denotes some of the courses for the program are offered on the community college campus and some are on the four-year institution campus. If this designation does not appear, all courses for the program are offered on the community college campus.
