FCAT 2.0 Writing

Grades 4, 8 and 10

Florida has transitioned from the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test® (FCAT) to the FCAT 2.0 to align with the Next Generation Sunshine State Standards (NGSSS), which specify the challenging content Florida students are expected to know and be able to do. Next year, Florida will be transitioning to the Florida Standards in English Language Arts (ELA) and Mathematics. As part of this transition, Florida will be developing new assessments that will replace the current FCAT 2.0 and Florida End-of-Course Assessments administered in Writing, Reading and Mathematics. FCAT 2.0 Reading and FCAT 2.0 Writing will be replaced by one assessment in ELA. This is the last administration of the FCAT 2.0 Writing assessment.

On January 21, 2014, the State Board of Education established passing scores for all FCAT 2.0 assessments, as required by Section 1008.22(3), Florida Statutes. Although state law does not require students to pass FCAT 2.0 Writing for student progression or graduation purposes, the State Board has established a score of 3.5 as the passing score for the writing assessment. Students scoring at 3.5 or above are used in the proficiency calculation for school grades. Students receive scores on a 1.0 to 6.0 point scale. Information regarding holistic scoring is available at <http://fcats.fldoe.org/rubrcpag.asp>.

In the 2012-13 school year, FCAT Writing became FCAT 2.0 Writing to indicate changes to the assessment. Higher scoring expectations were implemented in 2011-12; however, students were given an additional 15 minutes to respond to the writing prompt in 2012-13 and 2013-14. The increase from 45 minutes to 60 minutes was provided after 2012 FCAT Writing comment forms showed that Florida educators observed students needed more time to respond to writing prompts in order to satisfy higher scoring expectations. The increase in the time allotted for students to take the assessment should be considered when comparing 2012 results to other years in this media packet.

The scoring requirements for the FCAT 2.0 Writing assessment are the same as those implemented in 2012, which differ from prior year FCAT Writing assessments. These changes include judging the total piece of writing in terms of predefined criteria of focus, organization, support and conventions with expanded expectations regarding the following: (1) increased attention to the correct use of standard English conventions, and (2) increased attention to the quality of details, requiring use of relevant, logical and plausible support. For additional information regarding the transition from FCAT Writing to FCAT 2.0 Writing, please visit <http://fcats.fldoe.org/fcat2/pdf/14fcat2writing.pdf>.

NOTES:

- 1) Percentages displayed in this document for 2013 may reflect minor differences from percentages published in last year's press packet. This is because of routine updates made to student demographic data subsequent to last year's release.
- 2) On January 21, 2014, the State Board of Education established passing scores for all FCAT 2.0 assessments, as required by Section 1008.22(3), Florida Statutes. Although the designated passing score is 3.5 or above, state law does not require students to pass FCAT 2.0 Writing in order progress to the next grade level or for graduation purposes.
- 3) On December 19, 2012, the State Board of Education established that the standard for the writing performance component of school grades is the percentage of students scoring 3.5 and above. In 2012, the standard used for the writing performance component of school grades was the percentage of students scoring 3.0 and above. This increase in the standard used for the writing component of school grades should be considered when comparing proficiency data from 2014 and 2013 to 2012.

² On January 21, 2014, the State Board of Education established passing scores for all FCAT 2.0 assessments, as required by Section 1008.22(3), Florida Statutes. Although state law does not require students to pass FCAT 2.0 Writing for student progression or graduation purposes, the State Board has established a score of 3.5 as the passing score for the writing assessment. Percentages may not add to 100 due to rounding.
