Your estimate of instructional hours should be based only on instructional time required to earn the specific certification. For example, if the student would typically earn the certification after completing the third course in a sequence of CTE courses, the instructional time should be based on the percentage of hours in those classes that relate specifically to the competencies for earning that certification. If those courses include competencies that are not required to earn the certification, that instructional time should not be included.

	to earn the certification	, that instructional time should not be included.
