...ned for...
...n ha... outside the café on the upper was
...early in the morning, the sun already blazing
^
...ced with the scent of riv...life, but thi...

Revising Versus Editing

Revising
(Wouldn't it sound better?)

Editing
(Wouldn't it look better?)

Revising circle:

Adding, changing or deleting parts of your text to help the writing flow.

Substituting more vivid words for overused words.

Coming up with an interesting lead that hooks your reader.

Coming up with a conclusion that sums things up.

Adding more descriptive details and explanations.

Making sure the organization of ideas will make sense to your reader.

Overlap (center):

Improving the quality of your writing.

Helping your reader follow your ideas easily.

Editing circle:

Making sure words are appropriately capitalized.

Correcting misspelled words.

Adding, deleting or changing punctuation to help guide your reader's understanding.

Indenting your paragraphs.

Making sure each paragraph starts with a topic sentence and ends with a transition to the next paragraph.